

Still We Fight

The world is vast and full of wonder
From mountain high to oceans under
With creatures big and then some small
Where people rise and people fall

It's a place of beauty but still we fight
Of love and hope, of death and life
Where every day is a new chance
To make a difference, to take a stance.

So let's cherish this world which we all share
And treat it with kindness, some love and care.
For it's the only one that we've ever know
Until we met again continue to grow

